Or an external power supply may be plugged in and used. Other cords used with portable devices are more flexible and may be used for different types of devices. Using an incorrect Cable may cause the device to malfunction or potentially damage it. A note about the battery life on MP3 players and cell phones: The charge time of these devices varies due to several factors. Some devices use MP3 players as a backup storage medium and will still have music on them if they lose power. This way, it is possible to be in a public area with a cell phone or MP3 player and come back to your home later and have music to listen to. Some cell phones use up all of the battery. This is true for many of the portable battery-operated devices, such as cell phones. When the battery is nearly dead, your cell phone or MP3 player may be unable to operate. Use your fully charged battery for the longest possible time before recharging it. There is no need to charge your battery completely. When it reaches the 80% mark, it will be fine for the remainder of the day. If you are not sure when
